

The R L Jalappa Mobile Health Unit

The R L Jalappa Mobile Health Unit is dedicated to screening for non-communicable diseases (NCDs) and cancer cases, bringing essential healthcare services directly to the community doorsteps. This initiative aims to enhance early detection and prevention of these diseases, which are increasingly prevalent in our society.

Equipped with state-of-the-art diagnostic tools, the mobile unit offers a range of screening services, including blood pressure checks, blood sugar testing, cholesterol screening, and cancer screenings for common types such as head and neck, breast, cervical, and colorectal cancers. By reaching underserved areas, the mobile health unit plays a crucial role in raising awareness about NCDs and cancer, promoting healthier lifestyles, and encouraging regular health check-ups. Through this proactive approach, we strive to improve community health outcomes and reduce the burden of chronic diseases.
